Nearly four years ago the Minister of Justice at Ottawa gave our officer access to all the penitentiaries in the Dominion. Discharge sheets are furnished us from each institution by the warden, which of course is a great assistance, as it enables us to make proper provision for those whose early discharge is anticipated. The work is individual rather than collective in its character. Although we regard the privilege of conducting religious services with the prisoners as important and very desirable, yet it is by personal dealing we get to know the man. We had 19,000 interviews with prisoners in the various jails, prisons and penitentiaries in Canada during the last year. But we have found it beneficial, however, to start...
